How do I know which vehicle is right for me?

When selecting a rental vehicle, take into consideration where you will be travelling, how many people will be travelling in the vehicle, luggage size and the kind of driving you intend to do. Auto Europe offer a vast range of vehicles from small economy sizes to larger full-sized cars, 4WDs, convertibles and luxury vehicles. The ACRISS system above will help you find a car that suits your needs. This is an internationally recognised code which will ensure you get the same standard of vehicle wherever you rent.

As a general rule of thumb, smaller cars are better in most European countries, as some roads were made before the general use of cars, so lanes can be very narrow and winding. Diesel can save you money on fuel costs and can be requested for hire and guaranteed for an additional cost.

Automatic and Manual Transmissions

Both automatic and manual vehicles are available France. Automatic vehicles are generally more expensive than manual cars and may be scarcer at smaller depots.

Do I need a credit card to collect my vehicle?

Yes. A credit card will be needed when collecting, which will be used for a security bond. The deposit is generally the insurance excess of the rental car which depends on the category of vehicle you have booked and the rate type.

Should I hire a GPS for driving in France?

GPS hire is available from Auto Europe Australia and delivered directly to your home prior to departure. GPS units can also be requested direct with some suppliers, however this will be at their own rates. If time is short, or you would simply prefer to collect your GPS unit when you pick up your car hire, this may be the best option.

Collecting at an airport in France

At most German airports, rental companies will have a desk in the arrivals hall and vehicles will be located within walking distance. However, at smaller airports you may be required to collect your vehicle from a downtown depot. Usually a courtesy transfer will be provided from the airport to the depot in this instance. Auto Europe Australia offer all-inclusive prices which generally include any location/airport fees that may otherwise apply. Remember to check at time of booking to ensure your rental price will include all airport fees.

Peugeot Open Europe

PEUGEOT OPEN EUROPE

Rental Vehicle Insurance

Rental Vehicle Insurance

French law requires all vehicles to have Compulsory Third Party (CTP) insurance, although your car rental supplier should already have comprehensive insurance covering their vehicles. In the case of an accident, it must be reported to the insurance provider immediately and an excess will be due.

Car hire companies in France will normally include:

- Third Party Insurance and Compulsory Insurance: This will be included in your car hire price. This covers other people's injury and any damage to their vehicle.
- Collision Damage Waiver (CDW): This limits your financial liability for damage to the rented vehicle and is normally included in prepaid car hire prices. Rentals are usually subject to liability excess, which can be reduced at the time you collect your rental car or by taking out Auto Europe Excess Refund Insurance.
- Theft and Loss Cover: This limits your financial liability for the loss or theft of the rented vehicle and is generally included in the prepaid car rental price.
- Liability Insurance: This limits your financial liability for bodily injury or death, and is normally included in the prepaid car hire price.
- Personal Accident Insurance: This covers the driver for personal injuries and is generally not included in your car rental rate. It is considered an optional extra that you can take out upon collection of the car.

Auto Europe Excess Refund Insurance

When renting a vehicle, the rental rates include basic insurance. However, in the event that the vehicle is stolen or accidentally damaged, there is usually an insurance excess amount which the driver is liable to pay to the rental company. To avoid any unexpected costs opt for Auto Europe Excess Refund Insurance which will offer a reimbursement for the supplier's damage and theft excess to a maximum for AU$5,000. Simply add this onto your car rental booking prior to departure and you could save thousands of dollars in case of an accident. To find out more, simply call Auto Europe on 1300 656 601 or visit the Auto Europe website.

The Auto Europe Hire Car Excess Refund Insurance is managed by Accident & Health International Underwriting Pty Limited, ABN 26 053 335 952, AFSL 238261 and underwritten by CGU Insurance Limited, ABN 27 004 478 371, AFSL 238291.

Driving in France

- Drive on the right hand side of the road, the driver sits on the left side of the car. Overtake on the left lane.
- If you park illegally you will receive a ticket. You can pay by buying a “timbre fiscal” (tax stamp) from a tobacconist, stick it on the ticket and mail it to the authorities. If you see the officer or warden you can pay them directly and keep the receipt. Most rental companies will bill you and apply a surcharge if you do not pay your tickets.
- Road tolls are common in France. Pick-up a machine-dispensed ticket upon entering the motorway and pay when you exit; don't lose the ticket or you will pay the maximum fee. You may pay with cash or credit.
- Signs at roundabouts will indicate which traffic flow priority. In the absence of a sign, the traffic entering the roundabout has priority.
- It is not necessary to drive within the city of Paris. The public transportation system in Paris is among the most efficient in the world and Paris is easily traversed on foot.
- Drinking and driving is a very serious offence. The blood alcohol limit is 0.05% and anything higher will incur severe penalties including imprisonment or confiscation of your licence. Be smart - don't drink and drive!
- Talking on a hand held device while driving is forbidden.
- Pedestrians and cyclist always have the right of way.
- In case of a breakdown, all vehicles must be equipped with a reflective jacket which must be worn when outside the vehicle, as well as a warning triangle, which should be placed 100 meters behind the vehicle to warn oncoming traffic. This should be provided with your rental car.
- Unless otherwise specified, the speed limits are 80 mph (130kph) on motorways, 68 mph (110 kph) on urban motorways, 55 mph (90 kph) outside built-up areas and 31mph (50 kph) in cities.
- The driver is responsible for all persons under the age of 14 years. Children under 12 years of age must be in the back seat. The law requires all children less than 135cm to use a child restraint appropriate to their weight and size. They are as follows:
 - Rearward-facing Baby Seat - Birth to 15mth/13kg
 - Forward-facing Child Seat - under 4 yrs/18 kg
 - Booster Seat - under 11/36 kg

Driving in France

Parking

Alternate side parking or “stationnement alterne semi-mensuel” means you can only park on one side of the road depending on the dates marked. On one way streets, you may only park on the left hand side of the road. Pay-and-display machines are common throughout France and parking is free from 7.00pm - 9.00am as well as weekends and public holidays, unless otherwise indicated.

Licence Requirements

A full driving licence is required to drive in France. All drivers must have held a full valid driving licence for a minimum of one year. Australian residents are required by law to have an international drivers licence. Contact your local motoring association for further information. Carry both your Australian and international driving licences with you when you travel, as some authorities may ask for additional confirmation of your license.

Min & Max Age Requirements

The minimum driving age in France is typically 18, though that may vary depending on the supplier and vehicle type. Drivers aged 18-24 years may be charged a young drivers surcharge. The majority of locations in France do not have a maximum driving age, however there may be restrictions for drivers aged 70-75 in some regions. In these situations, drivers in this age range may be required to hold a letter from their GP stating they are healthy and fit to drive. Check with Auto Europe for further details.

Cross Border Fees and One Way Rentals

Can I collect my rental car in France and drop it off in another European city?

International one ways are definitely possible however, as with any international one way, this will often incur a one way fee. Prices may vary depending on the supplier, the length of the rental and the drop off destination.

Can I collect my car in France, visit another European city, then return it to France?

Most car rental companies based in France will permit travel to other European countries without an additional charge. However, some suppliers do not allow luxury vehicles to enter Italy from France. There may also be restrictions on travel to some Eastern Europe countries. Some car hire suppliers permit travel to the UK by ferry for no additional fee, though the customer is required to cover the cost of the ferry.

How do I extend my rental after I've picked up the vehicle?

Once the car rental has commenced, you will have to call the depot where you initially collected the vehicle. If the vehicle is available to be extended, you will be offered additional days at the local rate.

Self Drive Tours: Paris

Courts and Cars Tour

This self drive tour will take you to the small city of Chartres, just a one hour drive from Paris. Drive south west on the A11/E50, passing through the beautiful Centre-Val de Loire region, famous for its vineyards and châteaux. Visit the Chartres Cathedral and listen to the choir and organist or walk the labyrinth, commonly known as “The Road to Jerusalem”. Out of town, the same road will take you on to Le Mans, a gloriously restored old city with cobbled streets and half timbered houses, famous for the 24 Hours of Le Mans which is the world’s oldest endurance sports car race. From here, take the D357 to get to Vendôme. Sitting along the south side of the Loire River is the ruined castle of the counts of Vendôme. Though these structures were created in the 9th century, there are still numerous towers and walls to explore. The abbey is also worth a look, with its fine florid gothic style and 12th century belfry. Heading back on the N10 will take you to the magnificent Palace of Versailles and then back to Paris on the D10.

Back to Nature Tour

Drive south east from the centre of Paris on the A6/E15 for 60kms to Fontainebleau, a historic town with a breathtaking, UNESCO listed palace and surrounded by a vast, abundant forest. Formerly a royal hunting park, it is now protected and well regarded by climbers for bouldering, a type of climbing without ropes. Within the forest are dozens of delightful French villages spotting the Seine River. Weave your way through these villages, stopping to taste a fresh croissant au chocolate or just enjoying the pleasant atmosphere. Here you will also find historic châteaux, which previously served as the residences of kings. Take the D606 onto the N6 following the water to Sens where much activity awaits. Here you can visit the Serres Municipales (greenhouses). Best of all, it’s free to visit. When you’re ready to return to Paris, hop on the A5/E54.

Central France

The central region of France is dominated by the Loire Valley, which is easily one of the loveliest drives in France. Tour châteaux, vineyards, traditional French villages and extraordinary countryside in this highly acclaimed region of France. Don't miss the Massif Central, a rugged landscape of granite and hardened lava, with violet-coloured volcanic rock and deep river gorges that provide an almost prehistoric feel.

Châteaux and Vineyards Tour

Find out for yourself what everyone is talking about on this self drive tour covering France's famed wineries and monumental châteaux. From Paris, head south west on the E5 and join the A10 to Orléans, the medieval capital of France. Stroll along the banks of the Loire River and dine in the local restaurants. The Loire Valley is renowned for its beautiful architecture, fine wine vineyards and wonderful cuisine. Visit Chenonceau and the other phenomenal structures that occupy this region before touring the nation's celebrated vineyards. Out of Orléans, join the E60 heading south west. Stop at the Château de Blois, a stunning chateau once occupied by King Louis XII, before continuing to the city of Tours. While in Tours, visit the city's fantastic museums as well as the Basilique St-Martin and the Cathédrale St- Gatien.

Volcanoes and Vol-au-vents

Starting in the delightful town of Bourges, take the A71/E11 towards Clermont-Ferrand in the Massif Central, a region famous for the Chaîne des Puys (chain of volcanoes) which surrounds the city. Along the way, stop in Riom to see Renaissance architecture fashioned out of the local black volcanic stone. Head to the top of the town's 16th century clock tower for the best view. From here, continue just slightly south to Clermont-Ferrand to explore the city and the surrounding mountain range. Then travel east on the A72/E70 to France's second largest city, Lyon. Known as the culinary capital of France, Lyon is filled the country's finest chefs. It is also recognised for its professional soccer team, Olympique Lyonnais, so join the locals and attend a game at le Stade de Gerland.

Northern France

Northern France is home to a diverse landscape of dunes, white cliffs, crystal clear lakes and deep forests. This region is a bird lovers paradise and serves as a migratory route for many species. Route of Battlefield to Belfries Start this tour in Amiens, where you can visit the town's famed cathedral and tour the former home of author Jules Verne. Follow the Somme River toward the English Channel down D3 to the medieval village of Saint-Valery-sur-Somme. Here you can stroll along the boardwalk and visit beaches famous for the WWI battle held in this location. Travel north along the coast and take in the spectacular cliffs of Côte d'Opale on the D940 to Calais. On a clear day here you can see England's White Cliffs of Dover. If you're in the mood for shopping, head to the huge Cite Europe shopping centre. From Calais, continue along the coast to Dunkirk, home to the largest sea evacuation in military history during WWII. Journey north to the Belgian border from here by taking the A25/E42 to Lille, France's fourth largest city. Lille possesses much of the charm and wonder of Paris without the crowds or the price tag. If you'd like to continue into Belgium, the nation's capital of Brussels is a short one hour and fifteen minute drive away.

Champagne of Kings Tour

Begin this drive in Reims, where many French kings have started their reign. This is also the location in which the German High Command formally surrendered in WWII. From Reims, drive right into the heart of the Champagne region in the town of Épernay. To get there, take the D951 to the Route Touristique de Champagne. Tour the extraordinary vineyards of this region and taste true French champagne. When you're ready to depart, drive a short distance on the D3 to Châlons-en-Champagne and pass through the Porte Sainte-Croix, just as Marie-Antoinette did on her way to marry the King Louis XVI. Visit the old town circus, which currently operates as a prestigious centre for the circus arts. From here, travel south on the A26/E17 to the city of Troyes, which is appropriately shaped like the cork of a Champagne bottle, its body defined by tree-lined boulevards and the rounded top encircled by the Seine River. While in Troyes, stroll past the city's incredible 16th century homes and visit the Maison de l'Outil de la Pensée Ouvrière, a museum dedicated to an incredible array of hand tools, documenting the evolution of industrialisation.

Eastern France

Eastern France is one of the country's best kept secrets and home to many beautiful buildings, prestigious honours and treasures to discover. Cultural Fusion Tour

The border town of Strasbourg is where the distinct lines between French and German culture begin to blur and a fascinating fusion of traditions, cuisine and even language emerge. The historic city centre, known as the “Grande Ile”, was the first city to become a UNESCO World Heritage Site. Take the A35 south through the Vosges Mountains on the Route des Crêtes, an 89km road through these mountains connecting Sainte-Marie-aux-Mines and Cernay. Drive slightly south east on the E512 and A36 to the eclectic and creative city of Mulhouse. After absorbing the delights of Mulhouse, take the A35/E25 north to Colmar, a stunningly beautiful, well preserved city. While in Colmar, the capital of France’s famed Alsace wine region, don’t miss Petit Venise, a historic and undeniably charming part of this great town. If you’d like to continue your journey through Eastern France, head back to Strasbourg and follow the Route des Vins for some of the country’s best wine and culture.

Reflection and Art Tour

Start this tour in the old town of Verdun, formerly one of France’s strongest fortresses and the front line location during WWI. From here, take the D603 onto the N3 to Metz. Metz is a city full of smooth waterways and shaded parks, boulevards lined with cafés and Michelin starred restaurants. Visit the Centre-Pompidou Metz for the city’s finest collection of modern art, before sauntering through the Quartier Impérial, Metz’s old town. Continue on to Nancy, heading south along the N57, winding along the Moselle River and Pont-A-Mousson. Nancy a hub of art and architecture. Make sure to visit some of the city’s incredibly well curated museums and remarkable churches.

Southern France

With quick access to Spain and Italy, this region of France is perfect for self drive holidays. The vast countryside includes Europe's largest maritime-pine forest, Les Landes, and France's highest peak, Mont Blanc. You'll also find numerous UNESCO World Heritage Sites in Southern France. The coast is lined with turquoise waters, luxury Riviera resorts, chic cities, fascinating harbours and colourful fishing villages. Enjoy the city's beaches, museums and gorgeous parks before heading to Marseille on the A50. Situated on the Mediterranean Sea, Marseille is one of France's oldest cities and the second largest port in Europe. See the Vieux Port, Boulevard Longchamp and Le Panier while in town. From there, take the E712 to Aix-en-Provence and explore the fantastic regional markets. Take the A8 onto the A7 to Avignon to see the Place du Papes and the town's famous bridge, then cross the Rhone on the N100 then join the A9 to visit the wonderful cities of Nimes and Montpellier. Out of town take the E15 and continue on the A61/E80 to the city of Carcassonne and visit the fortress, which was fully restored in 1853 it is now a UNESCO World Heritage Site. Take the A61 towards the mesmerising city of Toulouse, where you will find an endless selection of historical sites, modern and traditional restaurants, and entertainment for all ages.

Western France

For many, Western France is the first port of call on a driving holiday. This region is rich in gastronomy as fresh fish, shellfish, duck and dairy are in abundance. It is the birth place of many of France's famous cheeses and is home to a sophisticated landscape of manors, castles, neat orchards, stud farms, thatched cottages and tall hedgerows. The drink of choice is Calvados, an apple brandy rarely seen outside of France. Take a journey through the western peninsula of Brittany and discover the Celtic heritage displayed through the language, customs and dress of this region.

Celtic History by the Sea Tour

Start in the walled city of Saint-Malo, a fantastic city which was previously an island but is currently accessible by land. Cross the river from here to visit Dinard, a beautiful, high end resort town which previously held the magnificent homes of St-Malo's well-to-do merchants. From Dinard, follow the coastline along on the D786 to Paimpol, an area known for its port, beaches, markets and cobbled streets. From here, follow the D786 to Morlaix, where you will find houses constructed from stone and timber, bearing religious and secular sculptures on their facades. Take the E50 to the E60/N165 across the peninsula to Quimper. Quimper is the oldest Breton city and is a relaxed place and famous for its hand painted pottery. Take the E60 down the coast to see the famous megalithic sites of Carnac, including the standing stones, before travelling to the ancient town of Vannes. Travel just a bit further south east to the medieval town of Guérande before heading to the final destination of Nantes, a lively, modern French city offering its visitors many attractions and amusements.

Cathedrals to Conquerors

Start this tour in Rouen, the capital of Haute region where you can see the Rouen Cathedral, Big Clock and the former home of Gustave Flaubert, author of Madame Bovary. Follow the N15 to the coastal town of Le Havre, itself a UNESCO World Heritage Site due to heavy bombings during the battle of Normandy. Just across the river is the beautiful port of Honfleur. Continue along the English channel on the D513 to Caen, the capital of Basse-Normandie and is famous for its historical buildings, constructed under the reign of William the Conqueror. Take the N13/E46 to Bayeux and see the famous Bayeux Tapestry, then follow the N13 along the coastline to Cherbourg. While in Cherbourg, visit the Chateau des Ravalet, the Cidrierie-Distillerie Theo Capelle and the city's port, which was among the last stops of the Titanic before it sank. From here, take the N2013/E46 to the D2/D900 into the city of Coutances. From here, follow the D7 to the E3 and the D43 to Mont Saint-Michel. This incredible, UNESCO listed island village is among the most visited attractions in France and an ideal finishing point for this spectacular journey.

Money Matters

Currency

Euro (EUR €) = 100 cents (¢) Notes are in denominations of €500, €200, €100, €50, €20, €10, €5. Coins are in denominations of €1 and €2, 50, 20, 10, 5 and 1 cent coins.

Currency Exchange

The best places to change cash in France is either at post offices, which offer the best exchange rates. You can also exchange cash at the major banks and bureaux de change. France is known for having a very high exchange rate, so it is often favourable to use a credit card if you have one without international fees.

Banks are open in France from Monday to Saturday from 9.00am - 5.00pm, though they may close during lunchtime hours in smaller towns and rural areas.

ATMs

ATMs are readily available throughout France. ATMs typically accept cards from the Cirrus, Maestro, Visa and MasterCard networks. Please note that without a local bank card, there is typically a fee of €3 per transaction.

Credit & Debit Cards

Visa/Carte Bleu and MasterCard/Eurocard are the most widely accepted in France, though many hotels, retailers, restaurants and tourist attractions will also typically accept American Express and Diners Club cards.

Tax

Value Added Tax (VAT), known as taxe sur la valeur ajoutée (TVA) is 19.6% in France and is applicable to most goods and services. The tax on medicine and books is 5.5%. If you purchase goods worth at least €175 in one store in the same day (though no more than 10 of the same item), you may get a refund if you carry these goods out of France in your suitcase within three months of purchase.

Tipping

Restaurants in France automatically include a 12-15% service charge, which is required by law as tips are assessed for taxation. Each bill will itemise “service compris” (tip included). The prices on the menu include tax and tip. If you wish to show your appreciation to your particular waiter feel free to leave extra change or a small tip. Taxi drivers will expect a small tip between 5-10%, though it is customary to simply round up the fare to the nearest €1, regardless of fare. Porters are typically given €1 per bag and housekeepers receive €1-1.50 per person, per day. If a concierge provides special assistance, it is customary to provide €10-50, depending on the service provided. If you take any guided tours, provide the guide €1-2 at a museum or €2-5 if you take a guided group tour.

Stay Healthy & Stay Safe

Stay Healthy

The French health care system is one of the best in the world and the level of care in hospitals very high. If you receive any care in France, you will need to pay upfront and contact your private insurance for reimbursement. Make sure to carry travel health insurance and clarify the details of your coverage before you depart. Physicians and pharmacies are often on call, but home visits and consultations on Sundays and public holidays are always more expensive. If you need to see a doctor or go to a hospital, you will be given a signed “feuille de soins” (a statement of the treatment carried out) and possibly an “ordonnance” (a prescription) which you must keep in order to make a claim. Check with your travel insurance provider for the name of any preferred, English speaking doctors that may be recommended.

Stay Safe

France is statistically one of the safest countries in Europe. Pick-pocketing is the most prevalent crime affecting tourists, so it is important to stay vigilant, especially in crowded places such as trains, metro stations and popular tourist areas. Never leave your bags unattended and try to avoid wearing highly visible, expensive jewellery or clothing that may identify you as a member of a religious or political movement. As always, it is imperative to follow the same safety precautions when travelling that you employ at home.

In case of an emergency, dial the European emergency number: 112. You may also dial 15 for a medical emergency or 17 for police.
